Jo Newhouse to join School Committee

By LIZZIE MCDERMOTT
News Correspondent

WILMINGTON — Town and school officials extolled the enthusiasm and experience brought by three candidates to take the School Committee seat vacated by Peggy Kane. When it came time to vote, however, one candidate easily surpassed the rest.

At a joint meeting of the Board of Selectmen and Wilmington School Committee, Special Education Parent Advisory Council (SEPAC) Chair Jo Newhouse was selected to join the committee until the next local election, which will take place in April of 2019.

"I've watched (Newhouse's) commitment for years and years, and the hours she's put in," said committee member Steve Bjork as he cast his vote.

"Tonight I'm prepared to support a person who is very familiar with our school system, a member of the SEPAC, PBIS team, Wildwood PAC, Homework Policy, and I think her resume speaks for itself. (We had) three great candidates, but tonight I support Jo Newhouse," said Selectmen Gregory Bendel.

Dalton still waiting on news of brother's remains

By JESSICA KASPARIAN
News Correspondent

WILMINGTON — Wilmington resident Joyce Eaton Dalton, the sister of deceased Korean War Veteran Ronald Dow Eaton, awaits answers about whether her brother is among the remains of U.S. service members that recently returned to the U.S. from North Korea.

At a briefing led by government officials in Washington D.C. last weekend, Dalton learned that scientists have begun examining the remains and are making progress in identifying the service members.

"They didn't give us any encouragement it was going to be fast," Dalton said. "It takes a long time for them to identify [the remains], but they said that they're moving faster now."

Last year, Dalton provided information that would help identify her brother, who was a 22-year-old ensign in the Navy when he fell to his death after the helicopter rescuing him from North Korean territory was shot down.

"They asked me for any information I had on my brother, such as physical forms and dental records, and pictures of him standing, pictures of him smiling, anything," Dalton said. "I sent them quite a bit. They said that was very helpful."

Dalton and her family learned of Eaton's death on June 25, 1952, and has waited for his body to be recovered since then.

"I was to be married at the time it happened," Dalton recalled. "That [Eaton's death] was June, I was married in September."

Dalton considered canceling her wedding following the news of Eaton's death, but her mother encouraged her not to, and advised, "Go on with your life." "So, I went on with it," Dalton said of the wedding. "I'm kind of glad I did now, after all these years."

West Nile Virus confirmed in Wilmington mosquitoes

WILMINGTON — The Massachusetts Department of Public Health (MDPH) announced that West Nile virus (WNV) has been detected in mosquitoes collected from Wilmington on Aug. 7, 2018 in the Suncrest Avenue wetland area of Wilmington.

WNV is most commonly transmitted to humans by the bite of an infected mosquito. The mosquitoes that carry this virus are common throughout the state, and are found in urban as well as more rural areas. While WNV can infect people of all ages, people over the age of 50 are at higher risk for severe infection.

The Wilmington Board of Health would like to remind residents that by taking a few, common-sense precautions, people can help to protect themselves and their loved ones:

- Using insect repellents

- Wearing long-sleeved clothing
- Scheduling outdoor activities to avoid the hours around dawn and dusk
- Repairing damaged window screens
- Removing standing water from the areas around your home

Central Massachusetts Mosquito Control conducts routine spraying in the evening if the weather is above 50 degrees, weather permitting, with additional spraying to be done on Thursday evening Aug. 16, 2018, hopefully, weather permitting.

Information about WNV and reports of current and historical WNV virus activity in Massachusetts can be found on the MDPH website at www.mass.gov/dph/mosquito and <http://www.mosquitoresults.com> or you can call the Board of Health at 978-658-4298, or boh@wilmingtonma.gov.

News and notes from WCTV

By SHAUN NEVILLE
WCTV Executive Director

Next week will be an important step in figuring out who will take over the seat formerly held by Representative James Miceli.

Five Democratic candidates (Mark Kratman, Erika Johnson, Michael McCoy, Judy O'Connell, and Dave Robertson) will debate on Wednesday night at 7 p.m. on WCTV's Government Channel (Comcast 22/Verizon 38). You can also stream that debate on our website or through our app. Katie Lannan from State House News Service will moderate the debate.

We originally had two debates planned for next week. But on Tuesday, Republican Erin Buckley withdrew from the race, citing health issues with her husband. While Buckley will remain on the ballot, her decision effectively means Pina Prinziavalli is now unopposed in the Republican Primary. Prinziavalli will be invited to participate in our general election debate this fall with the winning Democrat and Independent Patricia Meuse, who does not need to go through a primary race.

There is still time to get in your question for the debate, but you have to hurry! We're looking for VIDEO questions, about 20 seconds long and recorded on your cell phone. Send them in to sneville@wctv.org or message us through Facebook. If you simply have a written question, you can submit that, too.

WCTV will be at the Wilmington Farmers Market this Sunday from 10 a.m. - 1 p.m. If you'd like to record your question there, that's an option, too! Just stop by our booth.

One other non-political note: WCTV's annual Family Fun Day will return this year to Yentile Park Recreational Facility. It'll be Sunday, August 26 from 11 a.m. - 2 p.m. Come on down for music, dance and karate demonstrations, free popcorn and ice cream and even a dog training demo. This event is open to the public and FREE for all Wilmington families.

New Programs:

These air on one of WCTV's 3 television stations (Public: Comcast 9/Verizon 37 - Government: Comcast 22/Verizon 38 - Education: Comcast 99/Verizon 39). You can also watch most of them at WCTV.org.

THE "NEW" ALTERNATIVE MINIMUM TAX

— PART III —

In addition to state and local taxes, the AMT also effects taxpayers with certain other adjustments or tax preference add-backs to regular taxable income in order to calculate AMTI. The most important of these add-back adjustments/preferences to arrive at AMTI are:

- Additions for virtually all itemized deductions but for home mortgage interest and charitable contributions
- Changes to depreciation deductions as an add-back related to accelerated depreciation over straight-line depreciation
- Additions for oil and gas benefits relating to deductions for depletion and intangible drilling costs
- Additions for interest earned on "private activity" tax-exempt bonds
- Additions for income "earned" at the time of exercise of incentive stock options (ISO)
- Additions for amortization rather than deduction of research and development costs
- Additions for 7% of gain amount on Section 1202 qualified small business stock sales excluded from taxable income

In addition to the above described tax preference and adjustment items that increase AMTI from the regular taxable income determination, long-term capital gains and qualified dividends are subject to the same maximum 20% rate for AMT and regular income tax purposes. This rate equivalency consequently means that taxpayers with a significant amount of long-term capital gains and/or qualified dividends included in their taxable income can be subject to the AMT with a minimal amount of add-on preferences or adjustments since the rate threshold discrepancy between regular income tax and AMT (37% regular rate versus 28% AMT rate) does not exist for long term capital gains or qualified dividend income.

Eames reported from wars in the Far East

By LARZ F. NEILSON

"From our anchorage we can see westward what seems to be a great city full of lights," Aldice G. Eames wrote, "only it has no regularity, and there is no suggestion of streets. Red lights, green, bright yellow, they stretch away to the distant horizon: They are the lights of the fleet, the warships of nine nations."

Aldice Gould Eames was in the Bohai Bay, China on July 6, 1900. Nine days later, intense fighting broke out in the war known as the Boxer Rebellion.

Eames, a Wilmington lad, carried on a career in journalism that took him to the Far East at the turn of the century. He reported on the Boxer Rebellion and the Philippine insurrection.

The Boxer Rebellion grew out of resentment of foreigners coming into China. A secret society, called the Society of the Righteous and Harmonious Fists, began attacking foreigners, especially Christians, in the late 1890s.

An alliance of nine nations responded, sending 54 warships to China. The U.S. response had two warships, 295 Marines and 3,125 Army troops, in a total allied force of over 55,000.

"It is a great flotilla," he wrote in the Boston Journal,

▲ ALDICE GOULD EAMES

"and it is as if myriads of luminous tropical insects had alighted on a great plant that has no limit. This naval outpost looks like a great glow worm, looming through the dark."

Of the fighting methods of the Chinese, he wrote: "They believe that by constant cultivation, they can render their bodies invulnerable. Strong in this belief, they are hot to try conclusions, and will rush in to fight with knives, swords, clubs, stones, and almost with their bare hands."

The fighting was particularly bloody, with atrocities reported on both sides. The alliance defeated the Chinese, and in the aftermath, many civilians were tortured and killed, and there was considerable looting. Large fines were imposed upon the Chinese government, which led to the downfall of the dynasty in 1912. Boxers and other Chinese continued killing Christian missionaries throughout China for several years.

The Philippine Insurrection took place after the 1898

Spanish-American War, in which the U.S. gained possession of the Philippines. That war ended in Sept. 1898, but insurgents continued fighting until 1901.

He was always addressed as Major Eames, but exact records of his military service have yet to be found. In the Wilmington Crusader of June 30, 1954, there is reference to him having been a Major in the Army during the Philippine insurrection. His obituary in 1950 also addressed him as Major.

Aldice Gould Eames was born in Chelsea in 1872 to Othniel and Sophia (Glover) Eames. The family is descended from very early settlers through the line of Caleb Eames. His father worked as a conductor on the Lynn and Boston street railway. In 1875, they moved into an old family home on Woburn Street near Jenks Bridge. The home is still standing and is now the Brookside Nursery School.

In a series called Wilmington Yarns, Paul Emmons wrote that Aldice Eames spoke of cattle drives coming up Woburn Street. Students at the East School knew that on Wednesday morning, they had better be up on the stone wall when the cattle were coming.

Aldice Eames graduated as Salutatorian of the Wilmington High School Class of 1887. He received a B.S. from Massachusetts Agricultural College in 1891 and a Master's from Cornell three years later.

He taught for one year at the Michigan Military Academy, and then embarked on a journalism career. In a Cornell alumni publication in 1921, he listed several newspapers, starting with the Chicago Record and the New York Times. He then became the Philippines and China correspondent for the Boston Journal. In Manila, he worked as editor of the Manila Times, Manila Cable News and Manila Freedom.

Returning to the U.S., he was a copy reader for the San Francisco Examiner in 1905 and covered the San Francisco earthquake in 1906.

He returned to Wilmington and listed his occupation in 1911 as a farmer. He later became an editor at the Boston Herald.

In 1930, a story in the Boston Traveler told of his hiring a portable sawmill and logging a substantial amount of lumber on his property. Herb Barrows worked with him on that project.

During World War I and II, he was an Army recruiting officer in Wilmington. He also served as a registrar of voters for many years.

An article about Eames is in the Wilmington Scrapbook, in the Wilmington library.

Kratman receives support of Massachusetts AFL-CIO

TEWKSBURY — State Representative candidate in the 19th Middlesex District Mark Kratman has received the endorsement of Massachusetts AFL-CIO. In a letter, president Steven Tolman said, "We are proud to support candidates who have demonstrated a commitment to the values and principles of the labor movement.

"I would like to congratulate you on earning the endorsement of the Massachusetts AFL-CIO and our 400,000 members across the Commonwealth. We look forward to advocating on your behalf and working together to create a brighter future for working people in Massachusetts."

Buckley drops out of race for state rep seat

WILMINGTON/TEWKSBURY — Due to an unexpected change in a long-term health issue for her husband, candidate Erin Buckley has made the difficult decision to remove herself from the race for the late James Miceli's former Representative seat in the 19th Middlesex.

She is immensely grateful for the support she received from the community and wishes the rest of the candidates luck in their continued campaigns.

Kitty's Restaurant re-opened on Saturday

NORTH READING — Kitty's restaurant of North Reading re-opened over the weekend on Saturday after being closed for over a month of problems with salmonella. The North Reading Board of Health had closed the restaurant after an investigation, including complaints from 39 individuals on salmonella issues.

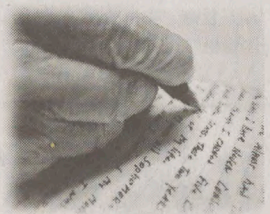

The source of the outbreak was directed back to the antipasto salad and possibly other salad house dressings. The restaurant was initially closed July 5 and allowed to reopen the next day after a cleaning. Kitty's owner, Scott White, said a professional service was hired to do the cleaning.

After receiving more complaints about the restaurant, however, North Reading's Health Department officials conducted an inspection on July 9 that found several food safety and sanitation concerns relating to unsanitary conditions, cross contamination and time and temperature abuse.

Since that time, a spokesman for the health department said Kitty's has gone "above and beyond" what was required and the restaurant was permitted to open Saturday.

The re-opening was an emotional one for many, especially the regular area customers, who enjoyed their Italian food and other meals. Patrons showed up with "Kitty Strong" T-shirts and many expressed wide smiles at the fact the restaurant will be open going forward.

Letter to the editor

Register of Deeds an important job

Dear editor,

I would venture to say that the average citizen has no idea what the Register of Deeds does or what an important job this really is. The Register of Deeds oversees the official recording and filing for all legal documents affecting real property. Those duties have been faithfully carried out by our current Register Richard P. Howe, Jr. for the Middlesex North District Registry of Deeds. Before Richard took over as Register of Deeds it pretty much functioned as it has since 1855, with the exception of the invention of photocopyers. There was very little automated or computerized indexing, all deeds were placed on photo copiers and bound into thousands of books and placed in racks similar to a library. Land plans were stacked in large drawers and the cost of reproducing a copy for the public was expensive and time consuming.

Researchers huddled around on small desks and lifting heavy record books and it took days to complete their tasks. Thanks to Richard's modernization you can now look up deeds and plans online from the comfort of your home or office and print them out on your own printer.

Over the years Richard has expanded the scanning capabilities and modernization of the Registry of Deeds records, however; he is not resting on his laurels. He is already planning new and improved equipment and techniques that will enhance older records to insure that these irreplaceable documents are preserved for generations. Safekeeping of these vital records since 1855 is an important job that should only be entrusted to an experienced proven professional such as Richard P. Howe, Jr.

Please remember to vote to re-elect Richard P. Howe Jr. on Tuesday Sept. 4 and again on Tuesday Nov. 6.

Sincerely,
Dick Cuoco

Letters to the editor

State Rep candidate O'Connell a 'thoughtful leader and deeply committed to public service'

Dear editor and residents of the 19th Middlesex District,

I am writing to express my sincere and heartfelt endorsement and support of Judy O'Connell for our next State Representative. As a candidate with prior municipal government experience, Judy is focused on supporting education and particularly special education initiatives, veterans' affairs, elderly services, combating the opioid crisis, smart economic development, infrastructure improvements such as roads, bridges, transportation and sidewalks, public safety and taxes to name a few.

Judy is a thoughtful leader and deeply committed to public service. The residents of the 19th Middlesex District would be incredibly fortunate to have Judy representing them at the state level.

Judy has worked tirelessly for the residents of Wilmington as a former elected member of the School Committee and the Board of Selectmen. Her leadership as Chairman on the Board of Selectmen was most impressive and if you follow town politics, you know that Judy was an agent of change and devoted to listening to the concerns and needs of the residents.

Judy was a strong advocate for funding Wilmington's full-time Health and Recovery Coordinator and believes in the importance of early education and community-based prevention programs. She has consistently addressed the opioid crisis and supported individuals and families who are battling addiction by promoting recovery treatments.

As an educator, parent and voter, I am struck by Judy's ability to address this epidemic with a myriad of solutions, compassion and care. This one example has demonstrated that Judy will approach all issues with deep integrity, intelligence and thoughtfulness.

During her tenure on the Board of Selectmen, Judy was instrumental in the development of the Yentile Farm Recreational Facility. As the chairman of the Yentile Farm Development Committee, Judy oversaw this project from beginning to end. This beautiful park, completed under budget, has quickly become a part of the fabric of the Wilmington community and surrounding towns. It is common to see residents of all ages utilizing this facility for its basketball courts, turf field, playground and walking trails.

In 2017, the Boston Society of Civil Engineering awarded the Yentile Farm Recreational Facility with the Sustainability in Civil Engineering Award. Judy doesn't just get the job done, she completes projects at such a high level of excellence and precision. She is focused, diligent and incredibly humble.

Judy's community volunteerism and public service are among the finest example of any citizen I know. The list is immense, but in addition to her elected positions, Judy has served as a member of the Wilmington Tewksbury Chamber of Commerce, a volunteer coach for the Massachusetts Bay State Games and Wilmington Little League, a volunteer for the Massachusetts Special Olympics, and a member of the Wilmington Scholarship Committee. To learn more about Judy, I urge you to visit her campaign site at www.JudyForStateRep.com.

I am committed to the continued progress of our towns. It is our responsibility to vote for the right candidate to be our representative in local government. I cannot think of anyone more suited and prepared to serve as our State Representative than Judy O'Connell.

Please join me in casting your vote on Sept. 4 for Judy O'Connell for State Representative.

Very truly yours,
Jennifer Bryson

O'Connell a 'person of character and ethics'

To the editor,
My name is Mark Donovan, a longtime Tewksbury resident, former Middlesex Sheriff's Department Captain and varsity wrestling coach at Shawshen Tech. I'm pleased to cast my vote for Judy O'Connell for State Rep.

Judy is a person of character and ethics. She listens first and reacts second. Her tireless prior involvement as a Wilmington Selectmen and School Committee member speak for itself. Judy's honesty, integrity, and tenacity are the qualities that we the residents of Tewksbury and Wilmington need to represent us in the state house

Sincerely,
Mark Donovan

To the editor,
I am writing to enthusiastically endorse David Robertson as the next State Representative for Wilmington and Tewksbury. As a resident of Wilmington, I have had the pleasure of working with David on wide and varied town topics that impact our community. From proposed developments that threaten the quality of life of our residents (eg. Global Gas proposal and the location of a Detoxification facility, in close proximity to a residential neighborhood, at 362 Middlesex Ave.), to adequate State funding for Wilmington Public Schools, Dave has been my point person for viewing concerns and continues to be a strong and vocal advocate, fighting such developments to ensure the safety and quality of life for the neighborhoods, families and children of Wilmington.

I am not the only one to experience this, however. As many residents know, Dave has been instrumental in voicing their concerns to our community boards and ensuring those concerns were also shared effectively with the late Representative James Miceli.

Rep. Miceli was a strong mentor to David, and placed a great deal of trust in him. So much so, that David was given the great responsibility to represent and to speak publicly on his behalf at various town meetings, especially those that threaten the integrity of our communities.

Dave has extensive knowledge of both communities and the specific concerns both of our towns are facing. He is already well versed with regards to the status of such topics at both state and local levels. He continues to actively work on these issues as an Ambassador to the office, and continues to advocate and finish the work Rep. Miceli had started prior to his untimely passing.

It is my distinct impression that he has been and is instrumental in the amount of work Rep. Miceli was able to accomplish on behalf of Wilmington. He clearly shares and exhibits the same strong dedication and commitment to our families and communities that were so well seen with our previous Representative. Tewksbury and Wilmington is where he grew up, and is truly his home.

As the Legislative Representative and a Board Member of Wilmington's School Committee for the past seven years, I have had the pleasure of seeing David grow and evolve into his role and position of Chief of Staff to Rep. Miceli. In addressing those concerns that have the largest impact to our public schools, I have always found David to be very responsive, honest and transparent in his communication between myself and Rep. Miceli, as well as, driving action to ensure best possible outcomes for our schools. I know him to be hard working and consistent with follow up of previous discussions and updates.

Well respected and known by other State Legislators for the work he has done and continues to do on behalf of our community, no other candidate running for this seat has that level of experience and knowledge of this position as David does. He is effective in his role and has proven himself with his impressive work and time as Chief of Staff. He's well acquainted with our local community leaders, our friends, neighbors, and residents, and knows many by their first names. He holds no allegiance to special interest groups and their agendas that risk the quality of life for residents and families.

It's for the future of our towns that he works so diligently in protecting. Dave will continue to advocate in ensuring our communities remain viable and attractive to new families and businesses, and that they benefit from "smart" growth and fiscal stability, without risking the qualities and uniqueness our towns are known for.

It's for these reasons that I encourage voters to join me in casting their vote for David Robertson in the upcoming Sept. 4 primaries for State Representative.

Sincerely,
M.J. Byrnes

McCoy is best choice for next state representative

To the editor,

We have a wide-range of candidates to choose from in the upcoming election for State Representative. This is a critical decision point for the residents of Tewksbury and Wilmington.

For many years we have been fortunate to receive a world-class level of representation and service from the late Jim Meceli. Regardless of who is elected they will be hard-pressed to meet the high standards established by Jim.

It is in our best interest to choose wisely taking three critical factors into account. Having done this analysis it is my belief that Mike McCoy stands head and shoulders above the rest of the pack.

The first of these factors is significant relevant experience. A candidate either has it or he/she doesn't. Mike has a solid track record of 30 years continuous public service as a member of the planning board and as a selectman in the Town of Wilmington. He did not do this for fame or fortune.

He volunteered his time because he cares. He is a life-long resident of Wilmington. As a successful business owner he can relate to the issues and needs of the business community.

The second factor is a proven track-record of responsiveness. Mike has been continuously re-elected for the past 30 years. This did not occur by accident. He has gone the extra-mile to assist hundreds of local individuals and families in their hour-of-need.

A critical component of responsiveness is accessibility. Michael has provided his home phone number on his marketing materials. When the residents in my neighborhood had a serious issue Mike volunteered his service and provided us with a lot of sweat equity, hard work and results.

You can always see Mike at Market Basket in Tewksbury or Wilmington in oppressive heat, rain or snow to interact face-to-face with the good people in our community. It is his belief that the best way to serve his constituency is to understand their concerns. The best way to do that is listen.

The third factor is the candidate's platform. In other words what are his or her plans to meet the needs of and provide superior service to the hard working citizens of Tewksbury and Wilmington? Michael McCoy formulated his platform by listening to the people. Some of the planks in his platform include:

- Providing legislative counter-measures to over-development with special emphasis on condominium development. This is a problem that the residents of Wilmington and Tewksbury can easily relate to.

- Exploring ways and initiating actions to curb or eliminate unwelcome robo and marketing phone calls. To my knowledge no other candidate or public has taken-on this issue that frustrates each and every one of us on a daily basis.

- Opposing future legislative pay increases.

- Imposing the death penalty for people convicted of murdering a first-responder.

- Opposing "Sanctuary-Cities."

- Promising to be your, "Full-Time" Massachusetts State Representative, working for you 24/7.

Mike McCoy is clearly your best choice in the upcoming elections. You deserve nothing less than the best.

Gerry Bruno

Robertson has experience and work ethic to become next State Rep

To the voters of Tewksbury and Wilmington,

There is a tremendous and rare opportunity in the race for our next State Representative, and his name is David Robertson. I am motivated to support him because of his proven experience and work ethic, innate integrity and unique commitment to civic duty; all required to get this job done well.

Everything in David's life has led him to this moment. Raised in Tewksbury, he graduated from Tewksbury Memorial High School, where he was a member of the band, track team, and mock trial, to name a few. He knows the importance of our education systems, and is ready to do the very best to assure that our towns' students are receiving all possible resources and dollars from the state.

As a young man, he achieved Eagle Scout status; a youth program of character development, values-based leadership training and centered around giving back to communities.

Later, David graduated UMass Amherst, earning double majors in Political Science and Economics. He was active in the Student Government. He served as the Undergraduate Secretary for External Affairs, meeting with Amherst officials to discuss the impact the university had on the town, and how to deal with resulting conflicts.

All this time, for the past 10 years, David has worked tirelessly for us — the people — and with officials of both towns at the State House with our late Representative James Miceli. He always has a keen willingness to listen to all sides and has learned how to solve problems at the state and local levels. He knows how to get things done in our best interest.

Personally, as a 30-year resident of Tewksbury, with 17 years working on several town committees and the Planning Board, any time I interacted with David at the State House, he always stood out as being professional and extremely knowledgeable on state procedures and resources. He would always go the extra mile, no matter what the topic was.

As I consider our future, I am inspired by David's character and background. We are on the threshold where our towns can choose to have a State Representative who has proven to be committed and invested, and who is uniquely ready and able to be proactive on our communities' issues and needs. David is truly, one of a kind. With him at the State House, we can be assured that we have the best qualified person and the hardest worker doing the job. He has proven this many times over the years and continues to do this now.

We have an opportunity to control our destiny, to place a genuine and experienced person, who has the essential know-how and dignity, in our Representative seat at the Massachusetts State House.

It's time to step up and take the opportunity David presents to us.

I hope you will join me in being inspired to support and vote for David Robertson for State Representative on Sept. 4!

Very Sincerely,
Nancy Reed

William Pepperrell Frost

Served in the Army Air Corp during WWII

William Pepperrell Frost, Jr., age 91, of Wilmington, Massachusetts and Fryeburg, Maine, passed peacefully surrounded by loved ones, on Aug. 7, 2018.

Beloved son of Laura (McKenna) and William P. Frost, Sr., he was born Aug. 9, 1926, in Brooklyn, NY. His family moved to Ridgewood, NJ, where he and his brother attended schools.

In January of 1945, during his senior year in high school, he enlisted and eventually was accepted into a pilot's training program in the Army Air Corp. After World War II, he attended Virginia Tech and graduated with a degree in engineering in 1950.

While working as a life-guard in Nantucket in the summer of 1947, he met a local girl, Carol Anne Norcross, through mutual friends. Unbeknownst to Carol, she had caught his eye and they were married Oct. 17, 1951, with his Uncle, the late Father Horace B. McKenna, SJ, officiating at his home parish in Ridge, Maryland.

They lived in Ridgewood, New Jersey until 1955, when they moved with their young family so he could accept a position at GE, Riverside in Lynn. By 1965, they had six daughters.

Bill worked for 32 years as an engineer at GE, Riverside, working on helicopter engines in the aircraft engine division where he made many lifelong friends. He began a woodturning hobby in 1950, while recovering from a car accident. His hobby of making salad bowls became an avocation. Early in his career he was happily surprised to see one of his bowls featured in an ad placed by the George Jensen gallery in The New Yorker magazine.

He was a charter member of the American Association of Woodturners' Central New England, Granite State, and Mount Washington Valley chapters, a member of the League of New Hampshire Craftsmen and the Guild of New Hampshire Woodworkers.

One of his favorite pieces is on permanent display with the League of New Hampshire Craftsmen. He sold his work in several galleries and fine crafts shops. He was active in the Robert Frost House in Derry, New Hampshire. One of his bowls, made from one of Robert Frost's maple trees, is on permanent display there.

He was active in the Boy Scouts of America, and became an Eagle Scout at the age of 16. He continued his lifelong interest in scouting by taking leadership roles in both New Jersey and the troop at St. Thomas of Villanova in Wilmington, Mass.

His daughters loved when he brought the scouts to their camp in Fryeburg that had previously belonged to a fellow scout leader. He was past-president and life-long member of the Piscataqua Pioneers, a genealogical association for descendants of people who had settled along the Piscataqua River prior to the Revolutionary War.

Bill enjoyed camping, canoeing, skiing, hiking, swimming, playing bridge, and spending time with his family. He loved his family and made each loved one feel like his favorite.

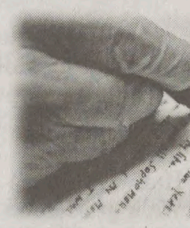

He is survived by his devoted wife of 66 years Carol; his brother Charles and his wife Kay of New York and North Haven, NY; daughters Carol Frost of Woburn, Sally and her husband Gary Whitten of Fryeburg, Maine, Sue Frost of Fryeburg, Maine, Julia Frost of Solvang, California and Lovell, Maine, Laura and her husband Peter Tuite of Susquehanna, Pennsylvania, and Nancy and her husband Jim Canty, of Woburn; grandchildren Craig, Julie, Nick, Erica, Mike, Stephanie, Jeanne, Kallie, Maeve, Peter, and McKenna; plus 12 great-grandchildren, and one great-great-grandson.

Family and friends gathered at the Nichols Funeral Home, Inc., 187 Middlesex Ave. (Rt. 62), Wilmington on Saturday, Aug. 11, at 11 a.m., immediately followed by a Funeral Mass at St. Thomas of Villanova Church, 126 Middlesex Ave., Wilmington, at noon. A private burial will take place at a later date. Visiting hours were held on Friday, Aug. 10, from 4 - 7 p.m.

In lieu of flowers, please feel free to make a donation in Bill's honor by mail to the Father McKenna Center, 19 Eye St., Washington, DC 20001-1425, or online at <https://fathermckennacenter.org>, or to your favorite charity.

After house fire, Kratman there to help family

Dear editor,
Sometimes a picture is worth a thousand words.

It was a chilly and dreary Monday morning, almost 15 months ago when we woke up to smoke in our house. We escaped with the clothes on our backs and began the long journey of recovering from a devastating house fire.

The foundation for our new home just went in about two months ago and we proudly and publicly display our support to Mark by putting up a sign. The morning of that fire Mark Kratman showed up and offered to help, asking what we needed and what he could do. Working with our family and friends, he helped coordinate donation drop offs and raise funds for our family of five.

I remember asking my husband that morning who he was, not realizing then that I would one day be supporting him politically.

We had never met Mark prior to that morning. He has been by our side every step of the way since that horrible day. Every time we see him, he makes a point of asking how we're doing, how things are going or do we need anything. Mark wasn't running for office, he wasn't trying to score points. Having lost his family home in a fire as a boy (something we found out later), Mark knows what it is like to lose everything. That's why he works so hard to reach out and help others. We share this story so people know the kind of heart Mark has for his community.

If you're even the slightest bit involved with our community then you most likely know that Mark seems to be everywhere, always offering to help if he isn't already in the midst of helping.

If anyone is capable of continuing the work that Jim Miceli started and with the same compassion as Jim, it's Mark. Mark is a lot like Jim. He's there for you. He's there to make your lives easier. He will fight for the little guy. That's what he does. It's not the party that he's representing, it's you, it's me, it's everyone of us. That's why he's the perfect choice to replace Jim Miceli.

Thank you,
Diane Catyb

No one works harder for residents than Kratman

To the editor,
I am writing this letter in support of my good friend Mark Kratman in his bid to be the next State Representative of Tewksbury and Wilmington in the 19th District.

My friendship and our coordinated efforts together started a number of years ago when working to help Barry Finegold become our State Senator. Our work spawned a combined effort to do good things for our community. It is the result of working with like-minded people that you build strong relationships and dedication to help your community.

In discussions, we formed a solid bond, both trying to help in any way we could. While serving as a member of the Tewksbury Planning Board I have worked together with Mark on numerous issues and concerns and he has always focused on what is best for Tewksbury.

Mark has worked harder than anyone trying to help our town in so many ways. His tireless effort on behalf of our town is unquestionable. Serving into his 4th year as a Tewksbury Selectman, he has helped provide the young kids in town much enjoyment through his numerous July 4th events and activities. His dedication and long hours volunteering to make sure the parade is held every year has become a labor of love.

Between his support of the senior citizens in town, his work with the Tewksbury Police Department and the opioid crisis and his working with the State Hospital Administration and the partnership with Tewksbury the list is endless. He has helped in more ways that I can discuss in this letter.

In addition to the above is his vast knowledge of the inner workings of the State House in his job as a Mass Department of Transportation Liaison. The years of experience has given him great insight as to what is required as our next representative on Beacon Hill.

It is a compilation of all of the above and then some which is why I am supporting Mark Kratman for State Representative. We all need a proven hard worker and a willing leader looking out for the residents of Tewksbury and Wilmington.

Please consider, support and vote for Mark Kratman for State Representative.

Sincerely
Vinny Fratalia

When there is evidence of alcoholism or drug use in a family, you can see the effects on the other family members, especially young people. Alateen meetings provide mutual support for young people affected by someone else's drinking and drug use. Come speak with teens who know exactly how you feel. The meetings are confidential and a safe place to share experiences, strength, and hope with each other; discuss difficulties; learn effective ways to cope with problems; encourage one another; help each other understand the principles of the Al-Anon program; and learn how to use the Twelve Steps and Alateen's Twelve Traditions. Massachusetts Peace Action endorses L'Italien

CAMBRIDGE — Cole Harrison, executive director of Massachusetts Peace Action, announced that the organization has endorsed six candidates for U.S. Congress: Tahirah Amatul-Wadud, Jim McGovern, Barbara L'Italien, Katherine Clark, Michael Capuano, and Bill Cimbrello.

Peace Action members used interviews, questionnaires, candidate forums, and voting records to assess who can best turn the United States towards a more peaceful foreign policy. Key issues confronting peace candidates in Congress include nuclear disarmament, end U.S. wars and interventions in the Middle East, end war threats against Korea, Iran, and Russia, and cut military spending to provide funds for health care, education, transportation, housing, jobs, and a green energy transition.

Tahirah Amatul-Wadud (District 1 — Springfield, Chicopee, Holyoke, Berkshire) is an African-American Muslim lawyer from Chicopee running against long-time incumbent Rep. Richard Neal. She has a record of supporting civil and immigrant rights, criminal justice reform and combatting Islamophobia.

Tahira's platform is unambiguously progressive, endorsing Medicare for All, debt-free public college education, a constitutional amendment to limit corporate campaign money in politics, progressive taxation and abortion rights. She has been endorsed by PDA, ORMA, the National Women's Political Caucus and she pledges to join the Congressional Progressive Caucus.

Jim McGovern (District 2 — Worcester, Northampton, Greenfield, Leominster) is one Peace Action's most valuable allies in Congress, a tireless and effective legislative leader for a range of peace issues. He is a key leader in efforts to end U.S. military engagements in Iraq, Syria, and Afghanistan, and to repeal the 2001 Congressional authorization that has been twisted by successive administrations to justify endless war. He was the first Massachusetts legislator to sign on to the Palestinian Children's Human Rights bill, HR. 4391.

McGovern received the Peacebuilders Award from Massachusetts Peace Action after giving the keynote address at our 2016 annual meeting, and also spoke at our November 2017 conference on Presidential First Use of Nuclear Weapons. (www.jimmc-govern.com)

Barbara L'Italien (District 3 — Lowell, Haverhill, Acton, Marlborough) has demonstrated through her work as a State Senator that peace is a priority for her. She is a strong advocate of nuclear disarmament and of negotiations rather than war, and is state co-chair for WAND's Women's Legislators Lobby. She recently submitted a State Senate resolution calling on Congress to place limits on the President's ability to launch a nuclear first strike.

Her legislative experience, combined with her commitment to peace and human rights, make her a valuable ally. She has committed to support the Congressional Progressive Caucus' People's Budget, to restrict first use of nuclear weapons, remove United States Armed Forces from unauthorized hostilities in Yemen, support the right to boycott, and protect Palestinian children in Israeli detention.

The foreign policy positions and passion of Jeff Ballinger and Alexandra Chandler also impressed them, and they noted it was not easy to make a choice. In this 10-candidate race for an open seat, they also give weight to experience in elective office and to the corresponding political experience and support that gives L'Italien a greater chance to compete with some of the candidates in the race whose peace credentials are less clear.

Katherine Clark (District 5 — part of Cambridge, Woburn, Lexington, Framingham) has been an activist progressive in the five years she has served in Congress. In 2015 she boycotted Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu's address to a joint session of Congress opposing the Iran nuclear deal, and in 2016 she was active in a sit-in in Congress on gun control after the Orlando shootings.

She is a member of the Congressional Progressive Caucus and consistently votes for its People's Budget. She reliably votes to oppose military budget increases, nuclear weapons increases, and Middle East wars. While she tends to straddle on Israel/Palestine issues, she made a positive move recently by signing on to the Promoting Human Rights for Palestinian Children Act.

Michael Capuano (District 7 — most of Boston, part of Cambridge, Somerville, parts of Milton, Randolph, and Everett) has been a consistent voice to check US wars and military spending during 20 years in Congress. A member of the Congressional Progressive Caucus, he consistently votes for the People's Budget, against excessive military appropriations, against increases in US nuclear weapons, and to withdraw U.S. forces from Afghanistan.

He introduced a bill to forbid US military action in Syria, and sued President Barack Obama to challenge his illegal intervention in Libya. His challenger has said little about foreign policy in the campaign and her positions on the Middle East and Israel/Palestine indicate that she is not yet ready to lead around a peace agenda.

Bill Cimbrello (District 9 — Plymouth, New Bedford, Cape Cod) is a progressive who is challenging incumbent Bill Keating, who has a poor record on peace issues. Cimbrello understands the destructive force of war and that it should be used as the absolute last resort. He opposes nuclear modernization and states that nuclear weapons should never be used. He challenges the continuous expansion of a weapon systems as a tool to enrich oligarchs, CEO's and shareholders and questions the need for US bases in almost 150 countries. He refuses corporate and corporate PAC contributions.

Wilmington moving company planning to expand

By LIZZY HILL
News Correspondent

WILMINGTON — Two Men and a Truck®, a Wilmington-based moving company, is currently looking to open new locations for their services in the greater Boston area as part of their goal to open 20 new franchises per year. While Brian Stern owns the Wilmington location among other Boston area locations, the national movers are interested in several targeted territories nearby and new people to open them.

Two Men's Compliance Director Pamela Batten explained what exactly the company is looking for in a franchisee candidate: customer service and community service.

"We pride ourselves on a system-wide 96 percent referral rating."

A franchisee would be the owner of a new location or franchise. She says that the pre-mapped areas around here that they'd expand to include but aren't limited to: Bridgewater, Hanover, Hansen, Middleboro, Canton, Brockton, Randolph, and Worcester.

In their search for like-minded franchisees, Batten included that the company is always building up their candidates from within.

"A lot of franchisees have started out as movers," she continued. "We have a lot of programs to further educate people to help them grow."

They believe that promoting from within is a great way to provide business opportunities for their current and future employees. Wilmington's Brian Stern added, "We're always looking to continue to groom and put people in the right positions to succeed so that they're not only successful in today's position but they're able to take the next step and jump the management ladder."

Stern is the perfect example of a franchise owner who started as a mover with Two Men and a Truck®. He began working as a mover in 2006, at 20 years old, in St. Louis, Missouri. He spent the next 18 months growing in the company, from customer service representative to operations manager, to general manager and now franchisee.

"I was able to learn the business from the inside out before having subordinates underneath me," he said.

He shared that as he grew, he found it easier to manage people who were doing a job that he'd previously held.

Stern took his first opportunity to manage a location in Indianapolis before transferring to open a new franchise in Chicago. His success there let him expand and rise to franchisee in Boston. His desire to continue moving up at the company comes from the relationships he's made with people in the past 12 years.

"We are a big, motivated family that wants to keep growing and be the best every day."

He loves what he does each and every day and he aims to inspire the same in all of his employees.

Knowing how labor-intensive the job is that he's asking of each employee, the multiple franchise owner believes in having as much fun at work as possible.

"In order for our employee to go out and provide that type of service," he shared, "people need to enjoy coming to work every-day."

Some ways that they maintain an exciting atmosphere are with music and targeted work events like barbecues.

It is a goal of Stern's to continue Two Men's growth in the Boston market.

"We want to be a big footprint on the Two Men® map."

He believes that they have that opportunity with their current talent level and community involvement in their existing locations. While he doesn't have his eye on an expansion location right now, he's always looking to take higher-level managers or general managers through the steps to become franchisees when they're ready.

Stern is seeing the company focus on growing in the East Coast. This year, Batten said that they've opened five new locations and resold seven.

"A transfer or resale is when an existing franchisee decides to sell, and a lot of those are picked up by an internal franchisee," she explained. "We look at it still as an expansion, because a current franchise is expanding, bringing new life and new market in that territory."

A few of the recent resales have been in Norfolk, VA and Westchester, NY.

While the company has been focused less on opening new locations and more on internal programs in the past year, Batten is sure that they will continue to grow with the need for moving services and meet their expansion goal for 2019.

Newhouse to serve until April

"I will be supporting Jo Newhouse but I do want to encourage the other two candidates to continue to get involved," added Selectman Jonathan Eaton.

Of six current committee members, five (Bjork, Jennifer Bryson, MJ Byrnes, David Ragsdale, and Chairman Julie Broussard) supported Newhouse. Committee member Thomas Talbot voted for Jesse Fennelly.

Each of the four Selectmen present (Bendel, Eaton, Ed Loud, and Chairman Kevin Caira) also voted for Newhouse. Selectman Michael McCoy was absent due to illness.

Before the vote, each candidate was given an opportunity to speak.

Fennelly, whose campaign for a committee seat last spring came up short, went first. Fennelly cited his experience as a parent of two young children and his desire to serve the community as motivating factors for his continued interest in the committee.

"That race really reaffirmed my commitment to our town and our schools," he said.

Newhouse went second, citing her years of experience with SEPAC, and her desire to balance her role there with pursuing a position on the committee itself.

"I haven't stepped forward in the last few years because I was actively involved with some different items with that committee, and I feel at this point that I'm able to step forward and move on from there," she said.

Also in contention was Scott Trach, the current Associate Dean of Retention and Student Success at Berklee College of Music. Trach cited strong beliefs in community service and the power of public education as his impetus to put his name forth.

"I've always been a believer that if you want to affect change and contribute to the good of the community, you need to get involved," he said.

There was discussion at the beginning of the meeting regarding the feasibility of postponing a vote until all committee members and all selectmen could be present. Several members of the committee voiced concerns that further delays would have a negative impact on preparations for the coming school year.

Byrnes cited an upcoming workshop with new Superintendent of Schools Dr. Glenn Brand, as well as school year planning, as relevant time constraints.

"It would be ideal to have that time to prepare any new appointee for their role in finishing the term of Mrs. Kane," she said.

"We've gone now for a month without somebody, our full complement of our committee," added Broussard.

Kane, who had served on the Committee for 16 years and held an impressive array of leadership and sub-committee positions during that time, resigned on June 13, citing "recent events in (her) life".

Any time a member resigns from the School Committee mid-term, their replacement is chosen by a joint meeting of the Board of Selectmen and the School Committee, in accordance with MGL 41:11 and Wilmington School Committee Policy.

WILMINGTON — The Kiwanis Club of Wilmington held a school supplies drive on Saturday. Despite the downpours they did collect a good sized donation of notebooks, pencils, folders, rulers, backpacks and other items. They will be combining these items with other Massachusetts Kiwanis Clubs and giving them to needy children.

One person who stopped by, Joan Consolmagno, retired school teacher, said, "There are many children who are in need when school opens. Having taught in an inner city school for many years, I have seen it first hand. Every child deserves to receive what they need to do their best. Every child has the right to feel important and enabled with the right tools to succeed. Please help this worthy cause. You will put a smile on a child's face. That alone speaks volumes!"

and Leila. Wanda's elderly mother also lives with them in their Wilmington home, where they have resided for 20 years.

Tom and Wanda are both dedicated school teachers. Tom has been a beloved member of the Burr After School Program in Newton for 22 years. Wanda is a Special Education teacher in Somerville and has over 25 years working at both the Kennedy and Healey Schools.

"He is a special, quiet, strong, funny teacher who made kids feel comfortable," said close friend of the family and organizer for a GoFundMe page, Laurel Brown Collins.

Collins has been a good friend of the family for over 16 years. Both of their sons were in Early Intervention together, as both have Autism, and they both have teenage daughters who are also friends. Knowing that the McLarens had no local family support, Collins was compelled to start a GoFundMe page.

"This family offers help to everyone, and they never ask for anything in return," said Collins. "We have very good friends that are like family, five or six of us have helped organize help for the family. Those of us (who are) local have tried to give back to a family who has always been there for us."

The McLarens also have support from both the Newton and Wilmington communities, as well as support from the Lesley University Alumni community and the UU Church of Reading. You can also see the love and support of many other friends and organizations listed on the GoFundMe page.

As for Tom's prognosis, he is progressing slowly, but still in ICU as of the printing of this article. Details of his recovery are updated on the GoFundMe page.

If you would like to donate to the McLaren family, a GoFundMe page has been started by Collins at www.gofundme.com/support-for-the-mclaren-family. All money raised will go towards medical expenses, lost wages, and both short and long term rehabilitation expenses.

"It's a marathon, not a sprint," says Collins, "but the family is grateful for every mile that passes."

Despite weather, Wilmington Tennis Tournament a success

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

sports@yourtowncrier.com
LEXINGTON - Despite the best efforts of Mother Nature, the First Annual Wilmington Tennis Open went off without a hitch on Saturday afternoon, providing a great afternoon of tennis for players and fans alike.

Well, that is not exactly true. There were actually plenty of hitches along the way, as organizers of the tournament were forced to move the matches from the Wilmington High School courts to the Lexington Boston Sports Club's indoor courts when it began to rain shortly after play had begun on Saturday morning at around 9:00 a.m., forcing a long delay between matches for the players.

But thanks to the great efforts of the Friends of Wilmington Tennis, who had organized the event, as well as the participants, the event proved to be a tremendous success, with over 30 players putting on a great show and offering some great promise for the future of the tournament in the years to come. Proceeds from the tournament will go to support the Wilmington High Tennis teams and tennis courts.

The timing of the rain could not have been worse, as the first match had just gotten underway, forcing organizers to pack up everything they had recently set up, and move not only themselves but all of the players on to Lexington to resume play.

Wilmington High Girls Tennis coach Matt Hackett, one of the organizers of the event, along with Wilmington High Boys coach Rob Mailey and local tennis enthusiast Kathleen Reynolds, was disappointed for the inconvenience, but thrilled with the response of the participants.

"Kathleen had arranged this as a backup plan, but we thought we might be able to get it in. But the skies opened up during the first match," Hackett said. "The participants were great. They were so flexible. We went over there and we had to wait for a while, but they were all willing to just hang out and socialize and watch the tennis and reconnect with people. I credit all the participants for keeping up the great mood of the event. Other than the great tennis, that was the coolest part of the day for me."

Hackett also praised the Lexington Boston Sports Club for their part in the day's success.

"I can't thank them enough for letting us have all of that court time for a really generous price," Hackett said. "We could not have done it without them."

Apparently grateful for the opportunity to play, the participants put on a great show, with champions crowned in five different divisions, Men's Doubles, Ladies Doubles, Mixed Doubles, Boys Singles and

Wilmington Tennis Tourney a success

Girls Singles.

One of the best matches of the day came in the Boys Singles finals where Wilmington High teammates Colby Scaplen and Chris Spinazola squared off, with Scaplen coming out on top by a score of 8-6. This followed a semi-final match where Scaplen won another thriller, narrowly defeating his opponent to advance to the finals.

"People watching that semi-final match were saying that it was a shame that someone was going to have to lose. It was just such a competitive match," Hackett said. "And the final was great too. Both of them just played great tennis."

The Men's Doubles finals provided another great match with former Wilmington High Tennis star Robbie Mailey and his partner James Harvey defeating Bryan Ferrer and Juris Playins by a score of 8-4. Mailey and Harvey had pulled out a sensational comeback victory in the semifinals to earn their spot in the finals and continued their great play once there.

"The two of them were excellent, they played so well together and they had to because their opponents were really tough," Hackett said. "I will also say that Robbie is just a fine, fine young man. He hasn't played much tennis since going to college, but he was outstanding."

In the Women's Doubles finals Karen Riley and Abbie Culhane downed Cassia Burns & Liana Angelis by a score of 8-2.

"The Rileys are a great tennis family and I have known them for years, but I had never seen Karen play," Hackett said. "She was just outstanding and so was Abbie. They worked really well together and played really well."

Mixed Doubles play saw a pair of out of towners win the title, with Alexander and Alise Rittershaus of Lynn defeating Idekelly King and Kurtis King in a thriller, winning by a score of 8-7 (5-3 in tiebreaker).

"I don't know how they heard about the tournament, but I am glad they did," Hackett said. "They were great people, and they were great to get to know. They added some real life to the tournament."

Hackett took a lot of pride in watching the Girls Singles finals, which saw Wilmington High senior Carolyn Roney defeat sophomore Lauren D'Arco by a score of 8-0.

"It was a lot of fun for them to go against each other," Hackett said. "Carolyn has been seeing a personal coach over the summer and it has certainly showed. Her game is just off the charts. And the D'Arco's (Lauren and Jessica) are doing great as well. They are both working hard. We also had Emily Hill (the Wildcats number one player) stop by to cheer on her teammates, so that was really great."

Despite a few hiccups, the entire tournament was a great success, particularly for a first annual event.

"Without a doubt, I was more than pleased with the turnout and the enthusiasm," Hackett said. "People were very excited and very happy to be there and they were already talking about next year and getting other people to play in the tournament. It was a great way to continue to grow the game of tennis in Wilmington."

Hannan takes first at Mill City Triathlon Event

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

sports@yourtowncrier.com

Another week brought another batch of great performances by Wilmington and Tewksbury runners in local races with four more races, including one triathlon, this past week.

The most recent, and probably most impressive performance of the week came in the Mill City Triathlon this past Saturday in Lowell, where Wilmington's Sean Hannan finished first overall in the Olympic Triathlon.

The 32-year old Hannan conquered the course, which included an out and back swim in the Merrimack River, a 22-mile bike ride and a 6.2 mile run in a time of 1:55.27 to take first place honors, outdistancing his nearest competitor by nearly ten minutes.

Another Wilmington resident, 42-year old John Hunt also turned in an outstanding performance, finishing 13th overall in a time of 2:40.28.

Also, on Saturday, four Tewksbury residents took part in the Mary O'Donnell 5K in Melrose, with Mick Mawn leading the way among local finishers, crossing the finish line in a time of 23:11, which was good for 37th overall.

The 57-year old Mawn also finished second in the 50-59 age bracket.

Other Tewksbury finishers included Meghan Bracislea (47th, 24:19), Cat Mawn (90th, 28:45) and Angela Herendeen (163rd, 40:17).

Wilmington High Fall Sports Night, August 21

The WHS Fall Sports Night will be on Tuesday, August 21 at 6pm in the Auditorium.

This is required for all students that will be trying out for fall sports and (1 guardian).

Important information will be discussed and students and families will break off by sport to learn about team expectations and tryout procedures. Permission forms will be distributed and should be returned to the coach on the first day of tryouts. A valid physical (within the last 13 months) should be on file in the Athletic Office if one is expired or needed. If a new physical is needed, a form must be submitted before a student can participate.

This past Wednesday, in the most recent installment of the Mystic Runners Lake Q 5K in Wakefield, seven Wilmington runners took to the course and fared very well.

Leading the way among the local finishers was 18-year old Sarah Lynn Burns, who was fourth overall in a time of 21:00, followed closely by 20-year old Elisabeth Olson in fifth place in a time of 21:10. Nipping at Olson's heels was Brian Schell, who won this race the week before, and this time finished in sixth place in a time of 21:11

Other Wilmington finishers included Samantha Burke (21st, 24:03), Amie Russell (45th, 30:03) Carissa Rubin (46th, 30:04) and Allison Jordan (47th, 30:04).

In last Tuesday's Reverse the Course 5K in Lowell, seven Tewksbury runners and one Wilmington runner did their towns proud.

Former TMHS and UMass-Lowell stand-out, 22-year old Rachel Eatherton of Tewksbury, was not only the top local finisher, but also finished tenth overall and was the top overall female in a time of 20:28.53.

Other Tewksbury runner included 50-year old Tom Cassidy (20th, 21:40.68), which was also good for second place in the 50-59 age bracket, Shaylee Puleo (25th, 22:28.79), Billy McCarthy (93rd, 28:54.87), Meghan Caliendo (161st, 34:31.81), Rachel Holmes (153rd, 35:04.24) and Jenn Pestana (161st, 36:14.92).

Dr. Ruth Potee has been secured as a guest speaker as part of the night. The talk is titled "Athletes, Opioids & Addiction" and will last about 45 minutes. Please click on the link below for more information:

<https://northwesternda.org/news/athletes-opioids-addiction-presentations-area-high-schools>

Finally, all students are encouraged to attend the Wilmington Rotary Club's ALS Ice Bucket Challenge on Sat., Aug 18 at 10am at Rotary Park. Last year, we had more than 140 students and coaches participate and it is a great event to support.

Renick named XC Coach at Austin Prep

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

jamiepote@hotmail.com
READING/WILMINGTON
Austin Prep High School Athletic Director Jonathan Pollard announced this past week that Wilmington resident Nicolle Renick has been named the school's new head cross-country coach. Renick has served as a three-sport coach at AP since 2011, serving as the JV Girls Basketball Coach from 2011-15, before being moved up to Assistant Varsity Coach in 2015 and she still holds that position today. In addition, she also has served as an assistant track-and-field coach since 2017.

"I could not be more pleased to name Coach Renick Head Coach of our Cross Country program," said Pollard in a press release. "Coach Renick has become engrained in the Austin Prep community through the multiple assistant positions she has held over the years. In her time at Austin, Coach Renick has been a great role model for our student-athletes, and built strong relationships with all she has coached. I am excited to see her finally have the opportunity to lead one of our programs as Head Coach."

Renick has been featured in the Town Crier several times. In 2014 she completed the Boston Marathon and was part of a team which raised over $425,000 on behalf of the Massachusetts/New Hampshire Chapter of Alzheimer's Association.

Rennick grew up in Wisconsin before moving to Iowa, attended North Cedar High School and competed in cross-country and track and-field, and still holds the program record in the 1,500 meters. She then attended Eastern Connecticut University and graduated with a degree in Graphic Design. She then moved to Woburn before coming to Wilmington and has since joined the "Sole Sisters Running Club."

"I am extremely excited, grateful, and honored to be named the Head Coach of the Cross-Country program here at Austin Prep," said Rennick in the same press release. "In my time here at Austin, the faculty and staff at the school have always been exceptional to work with and I have no doubts about their continued support for the future of the Cross Country program."

"The student-athletes, however, are the number one reason I cannot imagine being anywhere else. Working with them over the years has been incredibly rewarding and fulfilling. I've always been passionate about the sport of running, and I am excited to share that passion, along with my knowledge, with these athletes. Let's go Cougars!"

TEWKESBURY ABBEY

By PAIGE IMPINK
News Correspondent
paige@yourtowncrier.com

The name Tewkesbury, Massachusetts appears in historical documents as incorporated in 1734 "named after a town in Gloucestershire, England, famous for its abbey." Yet, in Tewkesbury, A Short History by Edward W. Pride dated 1888, it is also pointed out that no direct connection to anyone in Tewkesbury during the town's incorporation was from or related to Tewkesbury, England.

So whilst there seems to be some debate about the naming of 01876, there is no question that the city of Tewkesbury, England is a fine place to visit and full of history in its own right. We recently had the chance to visit Tewkesbury this summer during our family trip to England.

The stunning Abbey hosts over a quarter of a million visitors a year and is an incredible structure rising up along the River Avon, not far from a modern-day Main Street and the local cricket club. Construction on the 900+ year old structure began in 1087 and the Abbey was consecrated in 1121.

The Abbey soars to the sky, a compilation of Medieval, Norman, Victorian and English Gothic Revival architecture, and is an imposing structure on the landscape. The building is open for self-guided tours, services and evensong, a free choral service common all over England, held in the evenings.

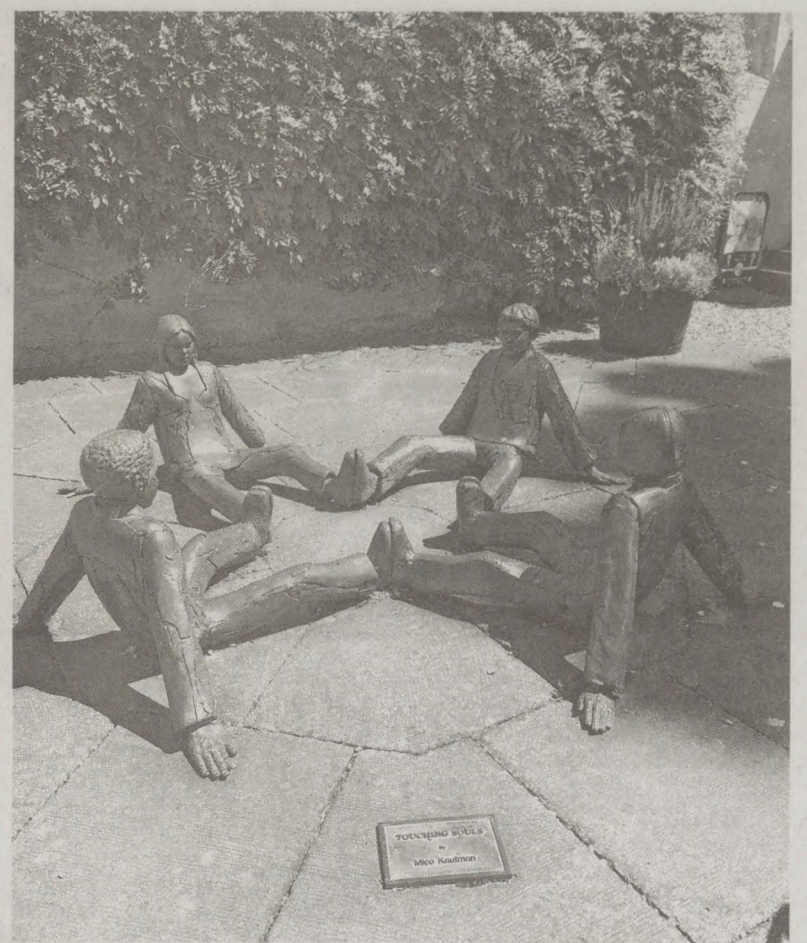

The Abbey is made up of a series of areas, each with its own purpose, designed to support the Monks of Saint Benedict during their 400 year residency. There is the quire for singing, the dormitory for sleeping, the infirmary for the sick, a renowned library, the refectory for eating, the cloister for reflection, altars for worship, the vaulting nave, small side chapels, and throughout one can see the misericords — carved wood resting ledges which helped monks lean during long worship services.

One of the most notable facets of the Abbey is the Milton Organ, a massive pipe organ with 4,611 pipes that is played frequently during services and concerts. Built in 1631, the organ had residences at Magdalen College in Oxford and Hampton Court Palace. Legend has it that poet and author John Milton played the organ, hence the name.

Tewkesbury Abbey bought the organ in 1736, and it has been enlarged and cared for over the years. The Abbey is referred to as the "Westminster Abbey of the feudal barony" given its support over the centuries by noble families. Notables include the Beauchamp, Despenser, deClare, Neville, Fitzroy and Fitzhamon names.

Tewkesbury was able to grow and sustain due to the long list of donors who gave lands and riches to the church upon their death, bequests that many at the time believed would be their ticket into heaven. Like Westminster, Tewkesbury is an aesthetically beautiful building inside and out.

Though the monastery was dissolved in 1540, as were all monasteries in England by Henry VIII, the townspeople of Tewkesbury banded together and bought the church for £453 or what today would equal approximately 500 USD to continue with Tewkesbury as their parish, according to documents. The community has been crucial to the upkeep of the building and has an impressive timeline of restorations and improvements which have kept the whole property viable.

Another connection to Tewkesbury is the Touching Souls sculpture by Mico Kaufman. The original sculpture depicting four children of different races touching the soles of their feet is in front of the Tewkesbury Methodist Church on Route 38. The sculpture was created by Kaufman to honor Howell and the work she did as a nurse and missionary around the world. A bronze copy is near the Abbey entrance at Tewkesbury, installed in 1999.

The geographic distance between our two communities quickly shrank as we stood at the statue. According to Mico's partner Elsie Howell, the Vicar of Tewkesbury visited Tewkesbury, Massachusetts and saw the sculpture, felt it represented a universal message, and asked if a copy could be obtained for their Abbey. In fact, the café on site is named the Touching Souls Tea Room and is run by volunteers selling homemade scones, soup, tea and such for those visiting.

Should your travels take you to England, think about a side trip to Tewkesbury Abbey. It is a charming town, our sister city, and worth the visit as you explore all of the riches of the English countryside.

Cost of back to school shopping down slightly from 2017

By HEATHER BURNS
News Correspondent

"It's the most wonderful time of the year!" A famous holiday tune, borrowed by a big box office supply store for their Back to School ad campaign, really wasn't that far off. Next to the holiday shopping season, back to school shopping is the second biggest shopping season of the year, with over 29 million families spending more than 27 million dollars each fall.

Back to school shopping started to become a ritual for families and a retail money maker in the 1960's. By the 1970's, kids would regularly go back to school with new clothes and shoes, a few notebooks and pencils, and if you were lucky, that cool Trapper Keeper they advertised on TV.

But by the late 1980's, a set school supply list became popular among school districts. As budget cuts became more prevalent, teachers were forced to deal with the lack of classroom supplies. Thus, the school supply list for parents became longer, often including things like tissues and cleaning supplies as well as paper, pens, rulers, backpacks and even electronics.

So, what should the average family expect to pay this year? According to the Huntington Backpack Index, a survey performed by Huntington National Bank and the non-profit organization Communities in Schools, the cost of back to school shopping for the 2018-19 school year has actually dropped from last years school shopping season.

In 2017, the average cost for an elementary school child's supplies went from $662 per student to $637 for the 2018-19 school year. For middle school students, the cost went from $1,001 per student to $941 for this school year. A similar drop also happened for high school students, going from a cost of $1,489 in 2017 to $1,355.

It should be noted that the cost for middle school and high school students includes not only the cost of clothing, shoes, paper, pens and electronics, but also activity and sport participation fees.

After a steady rise in the price of school supplies between 2007 and 2017, the decrease in cost for the 2018-19 school year is a welcome change. But still the cost per child can be quite challenging for most families. Consumer Reports, a non-profit organization, has come up with several smart shopping strategies to save money this season:

- Do a quick inventory of your house. Do you really need more pens? A check of desk drawers and closets might find you more supplies than you think. Check last years backpack, a quick trip in the washing machine, and it might still be in good condition.

- Wait to buy everything on your list. Your student won't need everything on the first day, and most retailers start to put back to school items on sale after Labor Day. (They need to make room on the shelves for the Christmas decorations that need to be out by Halloween!)

- Warm weather lasts for the first month or two of school, so take advantage of end of the season sales on summer clothes, and wait until October to buy fall clothing.

- Shop with a plan. Set a budget and stick to it.

- Skip the office supply stores. Dealnews, a comparison shopping website, suggests that you can buy the same brand supplies at discount stores, but for a much better price.

- For some students, the largest portion of their back to school budget is spent on electronics. Consider buying refurbished electronics. Look for certified models from reputable dealers. If you want new products, wait to make the purchase until October. Retailers get new models in for the holiday season then, so last years models will be discounted.

If you follow these shopping tips, and stick to your budget, the 2018-19 back to school shopping season really could be the most wonderful time of the year! Well, for at least the parents!
